Campbell Gets City Hall August 1

MAYBE IT STILL IS THE ORCHARD CITY . . . Despite the fact that subdivisions and shopping centers have sprouted where trees grew before, the above pictures indicate that Campbell still could be classed as the "orchard city". In the top picture, Gilbert Lathrop, 306 N. Winchester Road,, sits on his tractor in the midst of his "family orchard", located across from one large shopping center and next to another. In the lower picture "Dad" Lee, a tenant on the downtown "farm" measures a stalk of corn that is growing in the flower garden on the ranch.—Campbell Press photo

Water from the Merle Gardner ranch just off Hamilton Ave. at the rear of Harrison Ave., on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week overflowed onto David St. and Almarida Drive.

The water, which reminded the residents of the area of the December floods at times flowed from curb to curb and covered some of the lawns. Dutard Ave. at Almarida was the gathering place for the water and the kids of the neighborhood. The kids had a great time wading and using "rafts" in the lake formed at the intersection. The water came from the conservation district and was shut off on Wednesday night.

An informal and impromptu neighborhood music festival, which included drums, accordion, guitar and harmonica on Saturday evening in the Memory Lane area, near McBain Ave., was investigated by Patrolman Gordon Rooney when a resident of the neighborhood who was unappreciative of the music rendered called the police. Patrolman Rooney did not find anything amiss at the "festival" at which Mayor John M. Chargin was manning the drums.

Life Saving Classes

Junior and senior life-saving classes at the Campbell Union High School swimming pool will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday and continue for a series of 7 lessons of three hours each, it was announced by Perry, pool manager.

'Farm' Thrives In City

Campbell has been known for years as the "Orchard City" and Gilbert Lathrop, 306 N. Winchester, has been doing his best for the last 13 years to see that his community lives up to its name.

With subdivisions and shopping centers sprouting up all over the place where orchards bloomed before, it is becoming increasingly difficult for Campbell to hold onto its place in the sun, as far as orchards are concerned.

But Lathrop is doing his part to keep the slogan intact.

By Shopping Center

Situated across the street from the big Campbell Shopping Center where Lee Bros. Campbell Drugs and a number of other stores are located. Almost next door is the new Garrison Shopping Center. Lathrop has developed the one-half acre that he owns into a garden spot that presents a distinct contrast to the bustling traffic on Winchester Road and the expanding shopping centers.

Downtown Farm

His particular "family orchard" probably sets a record for a "downtown farm". There are 34 varieties of fruit and nut trees now producing on the "farm", all planted since 1943.

The fruits and nuts range from avocadoes to apples and include peaches, cherries, plums, pears, figs and walnuts. Lathrop proudly claims that there are no two of the same fruit on his property which has a 60-foot width on Winchester and extends 316-feet deep. A house fronting on Winchester and a group of apartments are also on the property.

Lathrop, a long-time railroad employee, is engineer foreman for the Western Pacific. Prior to coming to Campbell he was with railroads in Colorado. Raising fruits and vegetables is a hobby with him. Another hobby of his is writing. He had had several stories published in leading periodicals and has written a number of books featuring railroading. One of his most successful was published in 1954, "Little Engines and Big Men", an epic of Colorado railroading.

He claims that Californians don't appreciate what they actually have, and it takes a person from a state such as Colorado, where the growing season is short, to take advantage of the agriculture paradise. He frowns on those who turn their backyards into patios and lawns, using up good growing land.

"You can't eat grass," he says and emphasizes his point by proving that he and his wife have not purchaser any vegetables or fruits since their city farm started producing.

Besides his fruit trees, many kinds of grapes, and berries flourish on the lot as well as melons, berries, beans, and corn. There is even one plot of garlic which is taken care of by Firmin (Frenchie) Ladarre, who lives in an apartment at the rear of the property

One section of the half-acre is devoted to a flower garden which was entirely developed by "Dad" Lee, who also lives in an apartment on the place.

"Dad" Lee's Garden

"Dad" Lee, whose tales of the Wild West and his feats of marksmanship have long been a tradition of Campbell, claims to be 97 years of age and has a birth certificate to prove it. He has developed many strange varieties of flowers and has attractively designed the garden with walks and plots. He also has built a lath house.

Campbell-San Jose Plan Boundary Confab

The hand of "brotherly love" has again been extended by the City of San Jose to the City of Campbell. This time it was in writing which possibly means a final solution will be reached in the vexing problem of boundary lines between the two municipalities.

San Jose City Dads by letter Monday invited the mayors of the two cities to sit down and work out a written agreement as to what are the "spheres of influence" of the cities on the annexation front.

San Jose also submitted a map, tentatively outlining their suggestions.

Campbell City Dads authorized Mayor John M. Chargin to meet with the new mayor of San Jose to work out details.

KEN ROBISON TALKS AT ROTARY MEET

"What an Organized Recreation Program Means to a Community" was Ken Robison's topic of discussion at the Rotary Club meeting last Monday emphasizing the "Accent on Youth" program at Campbell High School District's summer recreation program.

Ken Robison is recreation director of Campbell Schools.

Robert Culp was chairman for the meeting.

COMMENDED . . . Joseph A. Bonacina, Campbell City attorney, was commended within the same week recently by both the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers and the League of California Cities. The NIMLO commended the city attorney for his series of "Opinions" which treated annexations, excavations, refuse disposal, etc. He was informed that Kodiak, Alaska, among other cities, was using his "Opinions" for reference. He was also complimented in the same vein by the League of California Cities for the work.

Council Goes To Dogs

City councilmen had the dog-gonest time Monday night trying to do right by dogs and their owners in Campbell.

Following the recommendation of Dr. W. Elwyn Turner, county health officer, an emergency ordinance was drawn up which would require all dogs in Campbell to be vaccinated against rabies before a dog license would be issued.

Councilman Myron Fairchild thought the new ordinance should be in effect for a specified time. Mayor John M. Chargin, on the other hand, didn't think the time element was too important.

Both doggedly pursued their beliefs.

It was finally decided to send the ordinance back to the city attorney which would specify that the ordinance would be in effect only while the danger in the area existed.

LOCAL KIWANIS HOSTS S. J. CLUB

Campbell Kiwanis Club met with the West San Jose Kiwanians Tuesday when a general round-table discussion took place.

Because many members were out of town for the holiday, no other program had been planned.

Norm Corvello, president, was in charge of the meet.

Annexation Gets Green Light

Campbell will grow by almost 60 acres within a few weeks.

This became apparent Monday night when the City Council set August 13 as the public hearing date on the annexation of a parcel of land on the south of the city adjacent to the Campbell Lumber Company.

The annexation petition had been re-submitted Monday after it had been discovered at a prior Council meeting that the area in question included too many voters to be classified as "uninhabited".

Through the efforts of San Cava, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, the boundaries of the area were approved on Monday afternoon by the County Boundary Commission and the necessary signatures obtained from the property owners before the Council meeting that night.

Councilman Richard Morton pointed out at the meeting in making the motion for approval of the annexation that the area was ideal for sound industrial planning.

The Council on Monday was also scheduled to hear the appeal of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Burda for a change of zone from residential to light industrial at 50 Mission Way. The Planning Commission had previously denied the request.

Neither the Burdas nor their attorney, Paul T. Gallagher, were present at the meeting. Because some question arose of whether they had been properly notified of the public hearing, the Council voted to postpone the hearing until the next meeting.

A number of residents who had protested the zone-change at the Planning Commission hearing were present at the meeting and William Henley, 121 S. Winchester, spokesman for the objectors, was given the opportunity to express the views of the residents because he was not certain whether he would be able to attend the next meeting.

The residents felt, Henley said, that zoning it industrial would allow almost unlimited use of the property now occupied by the Campbell Hatchery, although the residents were not objecting to the woodworking establishment that was planned for it now.

HOUSE NUMBERS COMPLETE

W. L. (Bud) Morser, city building inspector, reported to the City Council Monday night that the notification of residents of their new house numbers would be completed within a week.

Youngest in United States

Campbell Press Adds Local Sports Authority to Staff as Columnist

The Campbell Press this week gained a unique position in the newspaper world.

The Press added to its regular staff what is believed to be the youngest sports writer in the country.

In this issue on the sport page, Marvin Moore, 9-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Moore, 586 Stonehurst Ave., Campbell, makes his debut as a regular sports columnist. His column "Sports Low Down" appears for the first time in that section. It will appear each week hereafter.

The Press feels fortunate in being able to offer this sports feature for its readers. In the four years that this little guy has been avidly following all types of sports, he has built up an enviable reputation as a sports authority.

He can (and will) reel off the batting averages of leading hitters of today as well as those of other years. (After all he is an "old" and experienced hand at the game. Remember he has now reached the ripe old age of nine and he has been a sports fan since he was a youngster of five.)

Readers are asked to send sports questions to Marvin and he will answer them in his column. The questions can be sent either to the paper or directly to Marvin's home. We guarantee he will come up with an answer.

Before signing him, the editor of this paper went to the Moore home armed with questions that should have stumped him. But they didn't.

Marvin will be in the fourth grade of St. Lucy's School in Campbell next year. His parents own the Cambrian Market on Union and San Jose-Los Gatos Road. Marvin was born in Santa Cruz but came here before he started to school.

He rates baseball as his favorite sport and hopes to become a baseball player, but he also likes the reporting end of sports. In fact The Press to get him actually had to take him off the staff of another newspaper.

Along with Richard Reeb, Bea Reeb and Tyra Salvador, all in about the same age bracket, Marvin was on the staff of the "Neighborhood Chatter". This paper was "published" for residents of Salerno Drive. Marvin shared the sports desk with Richard Reeb on this sheet.

Although the sports columnist claims he will make a determined effort to be unprejudiced in his column, he admits that the San Francisco Seals is his favorite Coast League team. He is also a New York Yankee fan and is a strong booster of the Cincinnati Reds.

Stanford is his favorite college or university and he has several favorite players in all sports.

But through radio and television he has kept tabs on all the teams. His parents reveal that he has announced a full make-believe game on his own in his own backyard.

He will be given assistance in his sports round-up by his mother who, on occasions will act as his secretary, so that he can make the strict deadline of the paper. Marvin also has an older brother, Mike, and a married sister, Marlene, (Mrs. Tom Becker).

Council Authorizes Contract Drawn For Purchase of Church Property

Campbell will have its own city hall by August 1.

This was virtually assured on Monday night when the City Council authorized Mayor John M. Chargin and City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan to proceed with the execution of the contract of purchase for the First Congregational Church building on Central ave.

Under the contract terms which have been tentatively agreed to by both parties, the city will pay a total of $36,000 for the church building. The City will pay $15,000 when the contract is signed and the balance of $21,000 before the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1957.

The First Congregational Church expects to occupy its new building on Campbell Ave., before the end of this month which means that the City should be able to take possession of the building by August 1.

According to Councilman Jim Arends, chairman of the building committee of the Council, it is estimated that it will cost approximately $20,000 to remodel the building for use as a city hall. All city departments will have adequate space in the structure. Lack of space in which to conduct city affairs has plagued the city from its inception. Arends judged that it will take 90 to 120 days to complete the necessary remodeling and that the city should be able to occupy its new quarters by November.

According to the Rev. Corwin Olds, pastor of the church, since the contract meets the terms of the church, no further delay in the formal completion of the transaction is anticipated.

The action was taken by the Council on Monday after the City Dads had received a report from Louis A. Cavala, who appraised the church at $37,000 with $10,000 as the land price and $27,000 for improvements.

The Council was unanimous in its action. Councilman Richard Morton, speaking in favor of the immediate purchase told his fellow council-members that he had changed his mind since the council election in April.

He said negotiations had begun during his term as mayor but the taxpayers had turned it down at the bond election in October. He felt because of this mandate from the people he should then oppose the purchase, although he had favored it previously.

The purchase of the church became an issue in the council election in April when Mayor Chargin and Councilman Charles Rose were overwhelmingly elected to office. Both of them had publicly stated they favored the immediate purchase of the church.

Because of this vote of confidence, Morton said, he felt that the people had indicated they wanted the City to go ahead with the purchase and that he was now pleased to follow their mandate.

Sales Tax Moves Closer

Supported by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce as well as other merchants in Campbell, the City Council on Monday night moved to adopt a sales tax for the city effective on October 1.

The city attorney was directed to draw up an ordinance which will be presented to the City Council for study by the August 13 meeting. In order to have the tax in effect by October 1, the ordinance must be adopted by August 30.

Council members met with the merchants and directors of the Chamber of Commerce last Thursday when the sales tax program was discussed. Every merchant and director present agreed that a sales tax was necessary and sible.

Directors present at the meeting included Judge Martin Walsh, Norm Corvello, Sam Reed, Lester Lafferty, Ben Strong, Doug Beatty, Del Lucot, and George Vierhus. Others at the meeting were Joe Dahl, Dobie Jeffers, Eddie Wright, Dave Ribble, and C. C. Norment. Sam Cava, secretary manager of the Chamber, told the group that he had contacted many other merchants who also had reacted favorably. Four of the City Council members, Mayor John M. Chargin, Myron L. Fairchild, Charles Rose and Richard Morton, were at the meeting.

In the meantime the Inter-City Council of the county (Campbell is not a member of the organization) this week vote to turn down the proposal of the county that the county receive a 15 per cent cut of all the sales tax collected in the county. The cities agreed to allow the county a 5 per cent cut . . .

NEW SPORTS COLUMNIST . . . Marvin Moore, 9-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Moore, of Campbell, this week took up his duties as a regular member of the sports staff of The Campbell Press. His column on the sports page will appear weekly. The Press claims he is the youngest sports writer in the United States.

Campbell Police Have Busy Week

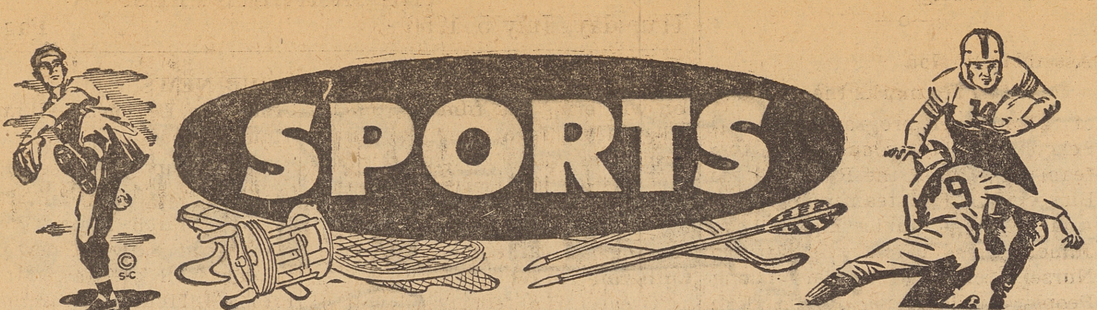
Campbell police had a busy time this week. Their activities ranged from defending themselves from a two-foot-long barbecue fork in the hands of a youth who was trying to prevent the arrest of his brother to investigating an explosion Monday night on the bridge on Campbell Ave. over the Los Gatos Creek.

Local police were also kept busy in pre-Fourth fireworks displays. One such action involved two youths who with an apparently distorted idea of what constitutes fun were charged with tossing firecrackers at passing motorists.

Patrolman Gordon Rooney suffered wounds on his left wrist inflicted by Angelo N. Miranda, 18, who used a barbecue fork to do the job. Rooney, along with Officer Richard Mayne, was seeking Angelo's brother, Joe, 24, wanted on charges of violation of parole. They were chasing Joe when Angelo decided to block them. Mayne's glasses were broken also and he suffered a cut over the eye in the scuffle.

The young Miranda also on parole was lodged in jail charged with interefering with an arrest.

The explosion which did about $400 damage occurred about midnight and rocked almost the entire city was the second such blast to go off.



STAMPERS WIN PLAYOFFS

Campbell Stamp won the first half crown of the Campbell Little League by winning the playoff game 6-4 with Herb Raymond on Tuesday.

At the end of the first half three teams were deadlocked for the top spot Western Gravel, Herb Raymond and Campbell Stamp. Western Gravel had won five straight contests but was unable to participate in the "sudden death" playoffs this week because of too many players absent through vacations.

In Tuesday's game for the championship between the Stampers and Raymond's team, Dave Buck, stellar Stamp hurler, pitched five innings and struck out nine and allowed only four hits as his team went on to win by a 6-4 score. Buck received credit for the win, although relieved by Randy Sutton in the sixth inning.

Lonnie Raymond, Herb Raymond pitcher, was the losing pitcher although he whiffed 10 batters. Buck and Larry Peters led their teammates at the plate with two hits each while Lonnie Raymond for the losers smashed out a single and double.

SANTA CLAUS IN JULY?

No, it isn't sleigh bells you hear coming from our bank, but it might as well be. It's the tinkle of adding machines adding more than $35 million in interest to our customers' savings accounts. This happens every six months, you know. We add full bank interest to the savings folks are building up in our bank as emergency funds, and for worthwhile goals like college educations and new homes. Another reason why it pays to save at B of A!

PLANNING ON PLANTING?

GARDENER'S CHECK LIST

By The California Association of Nurserymen

REMINDERS

1. This is a good time to plant the delightfully fragrant Bouvardia. This white flowered shrub is particularly fragrant toward evening.

2. To make compact well branced Chrysanthemum plants, the growing tips should be pinched out. Pinch Fall and Winter blooming varieties now for the last time.

3. Plant seeds of perennials and biennials such as Delphinium, Columbine, Coral Bells, fox glove and Canterbury Bells.

4. Black soot fungus on ornamental shrubbery usually indicate the presence of aphids or scale insects.

5. Preparations are now available which will readily kill persistent grasses such as Bermuda grass, Quack grass and Johnson grass.

Gardening in the Shade

Though you may consider the sun-loving flowers and shrubs the loveliest to look at in your garden you will find upon closer investigation that shade-loving plants have more grace and form than do their "sunny cousins". These graceful shade plants can bring color to your garden too, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

Gardening in the shade can be very rewarding when you work with a shade-lover like the Florists' Cyclamen and its miniature sister Cyclamen neapolitanum. The Florists' Cyclamen (C. indicum) blooms from November to April, is tender to half hardy and features exceptionally large flowers in white or shades of pink and rose to red. Cyclamen neapolitanum grows only four inches high and its blooms of pale to deep pink with crimson centers are surrounded by light green leaves marbled with silver and white. It flowers from August to October. Give the Cyclamen bulbs filtered shade in rich, porous soil with plenty of leaf mold.

Large flowers in white, pink, blue, rose and red shades bloom on the Primula obconica, a hardy perennial of the Primrose family. The P. obconica, a native of Southern China, is a perennial that is sometimes treated as an annual because it blooms itself to death. It will bloom from early Spring to late fall and often throughout the year. Give it a windfree, cool, shady spot.

Both the Hybrid Tuberous Begonia and the Multiflora Tuberous Begonia will perform beautifully in your shade garden. The Hybrids grow in many gorgeous colors and lovely blossom forms and the Mutiflora is covered with smaller flowers one and a half inches in diameter in yellow, copper and salmon and scarlet red.

Water these Begonias generously, feed after they're well established and place them so they have partial sun. Be sure they have good drainage also. A standard growing mixture is mostly, leaft mold, some peat and sand.

Herbs for the Barbecue

Barbecuing outdoors is a favorite leisure pastime today in California. Many Westerners eat their meals outdoors for many weeks during the summer, preparing various types of meats over barbecue braziers and pits. Though these meats are prepared in a variety of ways—on skewers, racks or wrapped in foil in the coals—they all are usually seasoned with spices and herbs to make them more tasty. And these herbs can easily be grown in containers or in the garden bed near the barbecue area.

Herb gardens have a charm all their own. In the 16th and 17th century they were laid out in formal patterns but today's gardener can grow them informally in pots and containers, or rock gardens and border areas, says the California Association of Nurserymen. Garlic is probably the herb used most often in barbecuing. Botanically speaking, it's called Allium sativum and it can be used on beef as well as in salads and mixed with butter on barbecue breads.

The fresh leaves of Dill (Anethum graveolens) are a delicious seasoning for lamb chops. Marjoram has long been a favorite with rich meats of all sorts. It grows in a wide variety of species ,one of which is Oregano. And Summer Savory (Satureja hortensis), Winter Savory (Satureja montana), Mint (Mentha), Rosemary (Rosmarinus officinalis) and Sage (Salvia officinalis) will all season a barbecued meat to perfection.

Herbs can be grown from seedlings and they will do well in average soil, preferably alkaline, in friable condition with manure worked into it. Water as you would anunuals and fertilize with an organic or chemical fertilizer if they don't do well. Trim them for better appearance. To dry for future use, cut the leaves just as the plants begin to bloom and dry in single layers in a warm, sun-free place until they're chip-dry. Strip the leaves and store them in closed containers. If you dry seeds for future use, they're ready when they turn brown or gray.

Tiny Tot Pool Hours

Tiny tot plastic tube hour will be held from 12 noon to 1 every Saturday at Campbell Union High School pool starting Saturday, when parents may bring their children who are too young to qualify for swimming lessons, for a play hour at the pool.

Rubber tubes and plastic toys to help keep children afloat may be used during this hour.

Although the play hour is restricted to children under 6 years of age and 49 inches in height, who do not qualify for swim lessons, older children in the family may accompany their parents and younger brothers or sisters to the pool during this hour.

A lifeguard will be on duty, also, according to Bill Perry, pool manager.

CITY PLANNERS TO MEET TONIGHT

Three public hearings are on tap when the Campbell City Planners meet tonight at the Country Woman's Clubhouse.

The hearings set include (1) the zone-change question on the San Jose-Los Gatos Road from the northerly city limits to the southern boundary line of the Campisi property. (2) amendments to ordinances and (3) application of Herbert Siemoneit for a zone variance for front and side yard setbacks at 156 N. Central Ave.

Also scheduled tonight will be a request from the City Council for zoning a study of the area south of the city limits and several matters that have been referred to the local commission from its county counterpart.

The Commission is also expected to study the official plan line maps for Campbell Ave. and Winchester Road.

RETIRES TO CAMPBELL . . . Lt. Cmdr. Ellison (Red) F. Hoey, on Saturday, June 30, retired from the U. S. Navy after 25 years service. He will reside at 250 Casey Road, Campbell.

After 25 Years Service

Retired U. S. Naval Officer, Age 44, To Take up Residence in Campbell

At midnight last Saturday, Lieutenant Commander Ellison F. Hoey, U. S. Navy, age 44, retired from the Navy and will take up his residence in Campbell, leaving behind an enviable record of hard work, study, devotion to duty and integrity. "Red" Hoey first enlisted in the Navy at Worcester, Mass. on 16 March 1931.

Recruit Training was taken at the famous Naval Training Station, Newport, R. I. Long years of sea duty during the blackness of the depression followed.

"Advancement was slow and highly competitive, and U. S. S. OMAHA and my next ship, U. S. S. MARYLAND were always at sea. Either exercises and drills or showing the Flag," Commander Hoey reflects. Then just before Pearl Harbor a brief tour on the China Station on destroyers followed.

"I was newly married and stationed at the U. S. Naval Base, Pearl Harbor with Mrs. Hoey. We were very happy—I was chief yeoman and living in Navy housing was a new grand luxury. We felt secure. The Sunday the Japs struck found Mrs. Hoey making coffee and me still in bed. I heard planes—high up. Then the house did a jig and the bulkheads in the bedroom seemed to close in . . . I'll never forget the sight of the U. S. S. OKLAHOMA capsizing . . ."

During WWII the famous "temporary" officers were created as an exigency of the times. By war's end, Red Hoey was a LTJG. The years of devotion to duty and hard work continued. The last tour of sea duty enjoyed by this capable officer was that of Transportation Officer on board U. S. S. RANDALL. Promotion to LCDR, USN came next on 1 June 1954 with a last tour of duty as Administrative Officer, U. S. Naval Communication Station, Washington, the nerve center of naval communications.

Retirement plans? "A slow drive across the country to our home in Campbell, California (250 E. Casey Road). Plenty of sightseeing and fishing on the way. Then I think I'd like to try my hand at insurance or real estate . ."

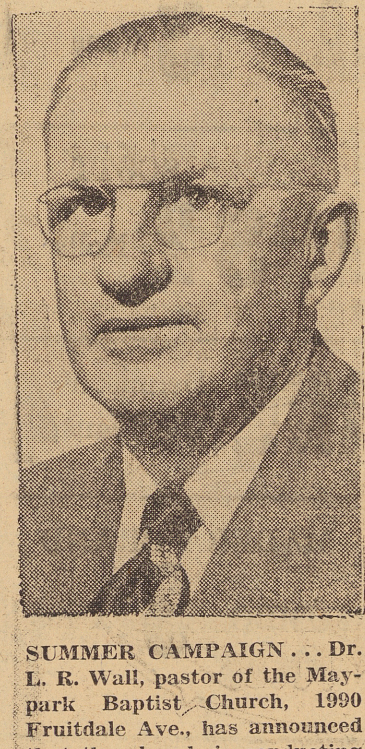
Rev. Neale Meets Noted Britons on Studytour

Word has been received from The Rev. Herbert Neale, pastor of First Methodist Church in Campbell, who wrote from London, the first stop of the Studytour of Eastern Europe he embarked on nearly two weeks ago.

Mr. Neale writes the group left New York on June 25 by way of Newfoundland and across the north Atlantic to Shannon, Ireland. Neale remarked the Shannon airport is one of the few completely tax-free airports in the world.

From London he writes: "This has been one of the great days of my life, one I shall never forget. Let me tell you what I've seen. Westminster Abbey, David Livingstone's tomb, the Scone Stone, St. Paul's Cathedral, home of John Wesley. We had tea with members of the House of Parliament and met some of the great men of Briton. We had two hours in the Diplomatic Section of the gallery of the House of Commons and heard final discussion of a bill to outlaw the death penalty. Saw Churchill, Eden, Bevan, Morrison, Sorenson. Sat next to the Prime Minister of Uganda, Africa. Will never forget this experience. Now on to Copenhagen, Denmark."

Mr. Neale writes that the people encountered informally are exeremely cordial and talkative—eager to help travelling Americans understand their country.



SUMMER CAMPAIGN . . . Dr. L. R. Wall, pastor of the Maypark Baptist Church, 1990 Fruitdale Ave., has announced that the church is conducting "Grow in Summer Campaign". The Maypark Church meets in its new building, a Sunday School unit built on a 2½ acre site. The church is also planning for future buildings, according to Dr. Wall, to meet the needs of the expanding area.

AT LAST . . . A CITY HALL

We have long maintained that the purchase of the First Congregational Church building on Central Avenue by the City of Campbell for a city hall would be a wise move.

Thus we are particularly pleased with the action of the City Council on Monday night which authorized the drawing up of the purchase contract between the church and the city.

No one will deny the dire need for more adequate quarters for the city. Just a perfunctory examination of the shoulder-to-shoulder situation that exists today among the city employees in their cramped office spaces would justify this conclusion.

It is our opinion that the First Congregational [illegible]hurch building offers a way out of a bad situation [illegible]ice the city can afford. We believe that it will [illegible]equate for many years to come.

We think that any question over whether the vote of the people last October in the bond election was a direct mandate against the purchase is purely an academic one.

True enough, the necessary two-thirds vote in favor of the bonds was lacking, but more than sixty per cent voted in favor of the bond method for financing the purchase of the city hall AND a new fire house. In our opinion when 60 per cent favor any question, that's better than par for the course.

We feel also that Councilman Richard Morton was right when he said Monday night that people in the April city council election by overwhelmingly re-electing John Chargin and Charles Rose to the council had indirectly given the council the go-ahead signal in the purchase of the city hall by the method now under way. Both Chargin and Rose publicly declared that they favored the purchase of the city hall and the people had the right to reject them at the polls.

If there was any issue in that election, that was it.

We commend the Council for going ahead with the purchase of the church property. We think it will be an asset to the community and we think that the city will be more efficiently administered as a result.

A DECISIVE STEP FORWARD

The Campbell Chamber of Commerce directors and members of the City Council sat together last Thursday and discussed a mutual problem . . . the adoption of a sales and use tax for Campbell.

We consider this to be one of the finest bits of civic cooperation that has ever been evidenced in Campbell and we think that such discussions should be held more often.

The Chamber of Commerce represents mainly the business interests of the community. The City Council represents the city as a whole. Both bodies are working toward a common goal ....the betterment of Campbell.

When members of the City Council explained the need for the sales tax, the C. of C. directors and other business people present, agreed unanimously that the tax was necessary and indirectly gave the City Dads the green light to go ahead with the adoption.

The business people, after all, are going to bear the burden of the collection of the tax. Without their cooperation, the city would suffer immeasurably in the sums collected.

But it goes much deeper than that.

We have long maintained that this cooperation between various segments that make up the community is an absolute necessity. Not only should the business people take an interest in civic affairs, but every resident should likewise have some knowledge of that which goes on at the city hall.

Apathy has no part in the growing city of Campbell.

We think this discussion between the Chamber of Commerce and the City Council was refreshing and a very healthy sign. But it should not stop there. Such discussions should not be limited. We can think of any number of actions that would have had greater success had they been aired before interested groups prior to final adoption.

We are greatly in favor of more of these mutual aid meetings, feeling that the town would be better off for them.

OUT on the LIMB

For several weeks we moaned in this column about the thieves who on three separte occasions have separated our car from its hub caps.

We gained some small comfort when we learned that Norm Corvello had lost his hub caps eight times. We also heard (and duly reported) one hub cap theft that was thwarted when the owner of the car inconsiderately showel up before the crooks had finished removing the 'caps

In another case a party recovered her hub caps because someone had taken down the license plate number from a car in which a couple of youths had driven away after they had first removed the hub caps from an Olds in a parking lot. The owner of the car that lost its hub caps in this manner had taken the foresight to mark the hub caps on the inside and thus was able to identify and recover them.

We are telling you all this because, despite our exasperation over the loss of our hub caps (even if the insurance company pays for them) we have discovered that a number of people must read this column—

That would be the only bright-side of the picture.

One person called our attention to the recent statement of Frank Sapena, Santa Clara chief of police, who said that a drive had been started in that city to stop the widespread theft of expensive hub caps from late model cars.

Car dealers and auto parts stores were being urged to stencil the auto license number of the car owner on the outside of the hub cap. The chief also went on to say that some owners had lost four or five sets of hub caps and had been listed as bad risks by their insurance companies as a result.

We don't blame the insurance companies for being upset. But, darn it, we think it is being pretty rough on the owner to classify him as a bad risk just because some hoodlums had got into the habit of picking on his car through no fault of his.

This week our sis from Long Beach enclosed a clipping from a Long Beach paper which reported that the Los Angeles police had announced a campaign in cooperation with service stations to crack down on hub cap thieves. They also plan to inscribe license numbers on hub caps. Member stations of the Southern California Service Station Assn., the police reported, had agreed to the inscribing free with electric pencils as a public service.

The police captain in charge of the auto theft detail said that $250,000 worth of hub caps were stolen in Los Angeles last year.

We are happy to see the LA police enter the picture.

Maybe Sergeant Friday will get into the act.

We had about decided we had our fill of "Dragnet" but, by golly, now we will continue to watch it to see if Joe and Frank can get to the bottom of this hub cap mess.

We have always maintained that our classified ads drew well.

But recently a classified ad in The Press produced far better results than even we had dared to claim

The ad actually resulted in a sort of a marriage proposal in a rather indirect and discreet way, via the phone, although that was far from the intent of the person putting it in the paper.

The ad read . . Working Mother Alone will share home in exchange for child care . . . ."

A very nice sounding gentleman called the number given and discussed the possibilities of some sort of a "working agreement", inasmuch as he was a recent widower with a child and wondered if something could be worked out.

The gentleman must be given credit. He cancelled further negotiations when he found out that the working mother was much younger than he had envisioned. Any arrangement of the type he had in mind really could not be considered under the circumstances.

The "working mother" reported that despite this "proposal" she was extremely pleased with the results of the ad. She said she did make a suitable arrangement from another caller. This time there were no special arrangements that had to be worked out.

Her other caller happened to be a woman.

But, you see, our ads do a job. Even a more complete one sometimes than is actually intended.

We couldn't close this column this week without calling attention to the new addition to the sports staff of The Press.

We are pleased to announce that we have signed up an outstanding local sports authority to write a weekly sports column for this paper.

We invite everyone to send in questions to this columnist or contribute in any other way that will help to assure its success. We are justifiably proud of this new feature. We have a hunch that you will like it, too.

We want you sports-minded people to try to stump our expert on a sports question.

Maybe you will have better luck than we had. We spent a couple of hours recently trying to best the guy.

We think he's darn good.

He says he's been following sports for four years or so.

We are naturally quite proud to have the youngest (we think) sports columnist we have ever heard of.

We will put Marvin Moore, 9-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Moore, 586 Stonehurst, Campbell, up against the best.

In Effect July 1

New 'Grounding' Vehicle Law Protects Public from Irresponsible Drivers

The new motor vehicle "grounding" law enacted by the Legislature in 1955 took effect on July 1, 1956, as part of the State's effort to protect the motoring public from damages suffered in accidents that may be caused by financially irresponsible drivers and owners operating on the highways.

Paul Mason, State Director of Motor Vehicles, this week issued a reminder to all motorists that failure to observe the accident reporting, financial responsibility, and security posting requirements of the California Vehicle Code may result in the suspension of a car owner's vehicle registration and license plates, as well as suspension of a driver's license. The new provision now taking effect is the vehicle registration suspension feature, which also requires the owner to store the car at his own expense while under State suspension.

The director said the accidents that must be reported under this law to the Department of Motor Vehicles' Financial Responsibility office in Sacramento include all those in which any one person suffers injury, death, or property damage in excess of $100. The report must be made on forms provided by DMV and must be submittted within 15 days of the date of the accident. The drivers involved in the accident must make such reports, regardless of blame for causing it. These reports are in addition to any required by local police.

Mason said that drivers and owners may exempt themselves from the security posting and suspension provisions of the law by establishing their financial responsibility. The most common method of doing this is to show on the reporting form that the driver was insured under an auto liability insurance policy for at least $11,000 at the time of the accident. He said the department has prepared a leaflet explaining exemptions and other features of the amended law, available from all DMV offices.

Dealers, banks, and auto financing firms throughout the State have been notified of a new provision limiting transfer of title of a vehicle whose registration and plates have been suspended.

The director said the amended law will operate with respect to reportable accidents occurring after midnight, June 30, 1956.

Flower-Decked Church is Setting For Brandt-Hockett Formal Rites

White gladioli and blue delphinium decorated the Presbyterian Stone Church in Willow Glen last Saturday evening, when Miss Naomi Anne Hockett, on the arm of her father, was escorted down the candle-lit aisle to become the bride of Douglass K. Brandt, before the altar banked with white snapdragons and gypsophila.

The Rev. Thomas Simpson officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

For her wedding, the bride was attired in a floor length gown of Chantilly lace over white satin, fashioned with a boat neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her chapel-length veil, edged with rose point lace, fell from a seed pearl tiara. She carried a bouquet of pink baby roses and Stephanotis.

Carrying out the blue and white wedding motif, Mrs. Thomas Baker, the bride's matron of honor, wore a powder blue lace-over satin ballerina length strapless gown with a net stole. Her blue satin head band was decorated with pink baby roses, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink gladioli.

Before the ceremony, candles bordering the aisle were lit by Gary Brandt, 12, the groom's brother, and Renee Graves, 12, the bride's cousin. Renee wore a pink dress, identical to the one worn by the matron of honor. Her head band was pink and her wrist corsage was of pink carnations.

Lee Brandt, six-year old brother of the groom was ring bearer, and Judith Boutelier, age 7, was flower girl. She also wore a powder blue dress identical to those of the other attendants and carried a basket of pink gladioli.

Einer Neilson of Campbell, attended the groom as best man and Matthew Davis was head usher, assisted by Eugene Vargas.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. H. Stanley Hockett wore a black lace over white satin sheath dress, fashioned with a pink draped neckline. Her accessories were in pink and she wore a green slipper orchid.

The bride's great grandmother, Mrs. Grace Rathbun, attended the wedding in a navy blue crepe dress with pink and navy accessories. A lavender orchid was pinned at her shoulder.

Her grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Graves, came form Portland, Oregon to attend the ceremony. She wore a light blue lace over taffeta dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was a lavender orchid.

Mrs. Roger C. Brandt, the groom's mother, chose a brown and white silk print dress for the wedding, which she wore under a French beige duster. Her accessories were light beige and she wore a Cymbidium orchid.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds entered the church social hall for the reception through a fern-decked archway and led the dancing with a Strauss waltz.. The church social hall was decorated with white gladioli and blue delphinium for the occasion.

A buffet supper was served at the reception when the couple cut their three-tiered wedding cake. The white pillared cake was decorated with pink roses and topped with the traditional bride and groom.

Mrs. Clarence Conners of Lebanon, Oregon, lifelong friend of the bride's family, was among the more than 125 friends and relatives of the couple attending the wedding and reception.

Following the reception, the justweds left for a honeymoon trip to Carmel and Rio Nida. For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a white hand knit dress with light blue accessories. She wore a Phalaenopsis corsage.

Following their wedding trip, the couple will make their home in San Jose.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stanley Hockett of 455 Washington St., San Jose, is a Willow Glen High School graduate.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger C. Brandt of 155 Wren Way in Campbell, is a graduate of Campbell Union High School. He attended San Jose Junior College and is employed in the electronics department at IBM in San Jose.

MRS. HILL PRESENTS VFW FLAG POLE

When members of VFW Auxiliary, Byron Lanphear Post No. 6305 attended the County Council meeting last Tuesday night, Mrs. A. T Hill, president of the group, on behalf of the Post, presented the Council with a flag pole, topped with the American Eagle.

Another presentation made that evening was an American flag which had flown over the Nation's Capitol one day during the president's presence. Rep. Now It Can Be Told

Long-Time Resident Reveals Secret Of Replanting of Memorial Tree

Editor's Note: Here is a "whodunit" that should be of particular interest to both old and newtimers of Campbell.

Mrs. Alice Joy Keith, a member of the Campbell High School graduating class of 1903, was present in 1903 when President Theodore Roosevelt planted a tree on the Campbell High School grounds. She has watched the tree flourish through the ensuing 53 years and now, as are a number of other local residents, is concerned over the fate of the half-century landmark.

The tree apparently is doomed because of the eventual widening of Winchester Road. The tree now stands on the parking lot of the Shell Service station at the intersection of Winchester Road and Campbell Ave.

From time to time a rumor has circulated that the original Roosevelt tree had perished and had been replaced by another. Mrs. Keith, who probably better than anyone else knows the true story of the tree, in the "confession" reveals how this rumor apparently, started.

She should know, for not only was she present at the planting of the Roosevelt tree but she has watched its growth with staunch loyalty through the years.

She was also present in 1913 when the alumni of Campbell High planted a pine tree where the What Not Shop stands today. The tree was planted in the memory of J. Fred Smith, beloved first principal of Campbell High.

But the tree died and was replaced in the still of the night.

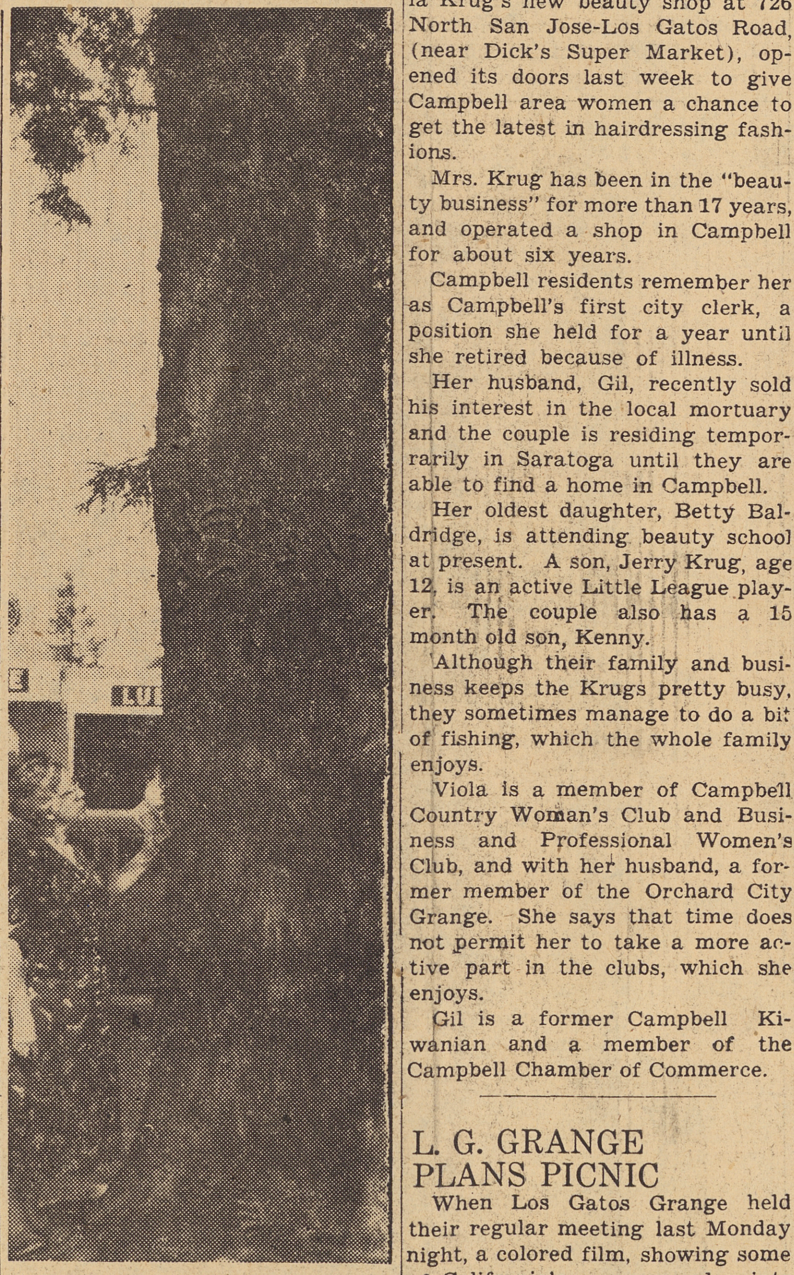
But let Mrs. Keith tell the story.—G. V.

By Alice Keith Joy,
Campbell High '03

This is th estory of the memorial tree that stood at the other northern corner of the old high school grounds, opposite the Roosevelt Redwood,—that lovely Monterey Pine now in the patio of the What-Not Gift Shop. It may explain the unfounded rumor being innocently circulated against the Roosevelt tree.

Planted in 1913

The Pine was planted in the spring of 1913, by the alumni of Campbell High, then numbering between one and two hundred, in nemory of a revered teacher, Professor J. Fred Smith, first principal of the school.



In 1899 Professor Smith came, an experienced and gifted teacher from Grinnell, Iowa, at the invitation of some of the early settlers who felt the need of a high school for their children, nearer than San Jose. With his wife, Ellen R. Smith, and their seven children, he bought an orchard and made a home on McCoy Ave. He attended a term at Stanford Unversity, "that the law might be fulfilled", found two good teachers to help him, and, that fall, started high school instruction in the unused upper rooms of the cupoloed gram-

Viola Krug Opens New Beauty Shop

"Modern Hairdressers", Mrs. Viola Krug's new beauty shop at 726 North San Jose-Los Gatos Road, (near Dick's Super Market), opened its doors last week to give Campbell area women a chance to get the latest in hairdressing fashions.

Mrs. Krug has been in the "beauty business" for more than 17 years, and operated a shop in Campbell for about six years.

Campbell residents remember her as Campbell's first city clerk, a position she held for a year until she retired because of illness.

Her husband, Gil, recently sold his interest in the local mortuary and the couple is residing temporrarily in Saratoga until they are able to find a home in Campbell.

Her oldest daughter, Betty Baldridge, is attending beauty school at present. A son, Jerry Krug, age 12, is an active Little League player. The couple also has a 15 month old son, Kenny.

Although their family and business keeps the Krugs pretty busy, they sometimes manage to do a bit of fishing, which the whole family enjoys.

Viola is a member of Campbell Country Woman's Club and Business and Professional Women's Club, and with her husband, a former member of the Orchard City Grange. She says that time does not permit her to take a more active part in the clubs, which she enjoys.

Gil is a former Campbell Kiwanian and a member of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce.

L. G. GRANGE PLANS PICNIC

When Los Gatos Grange held their regular meeting last Monday night, a colored film, showing some of California's scenery and points of interest, was presented. Master Martin Walsh provided the film.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman O'Connor and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fields were new members obligated in the fourth degree by state deputy John C. Gordon.

Guests included Master Joseph Marsh of Half Moon Bay and Past Master Lawrence Henderson and others from Orchard City Grange.

Plans for the annual Grange picnic to be held in August were discussed by William McGinnis.

Mrs. Ann Evansizer, Home Economics chairman, was in charge of refreshments served following the meeting.

Tips on personal improvement, styles, makeup and other pointers were given Campbell Business and Professional Women at their club's dinner meeting at Mariani's in Santa Clara last week, when Mrs. Dorothy Daly, operator of a Palo Alto charm school, was guest speaker.

Miss Denise Soloman, Old Settlers' Day queen, who was sponsored by the local Business and Professional Women's Club, was a guest at the dinner, as was Miss Beverly Strandberg, Campbell High School student.

Evelyn Cobb was chairman in charge of the meeting, assisted by Lucy Alderman and Thelma Solari.

VISITS IN PORTLAND

Mrs. Emily McConnell (of Rachel's) returned Monday from a motor trip to Portland, Oregon, visiting friends and sightseeing along the way. With her were her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Len E. Mayfield of Palo Alto, and their sons, Douglas and Stephen.

Service Club Holds Final Summer Meet

Women's Service Club held their final meeting of the season on June 27 in the home of Mrs. William Ostermeier, when Mrs. Raymond Davis and Mrs. Frank Blaine were co-hostesses at the potluck luncheon preceding the meeting.

Mrs. Herman Rice presided at the meeting, when plans were made for the club to have a fence built for a portion of the new First Methodist Church on Winchester Road.

Memorial Tree Replanting Secret

mar school building which then stood on Winchester Road facing down West Rincon.

Professor Smith, a master of mathematics and science, had that rare teaching gift of letting his pupils discover great truths for themselves. He was also an earnest Christian gentleman and steered a dangerous but sure course between the absolute separation of Church and State demanded by our Constitution and the vital need for the Bible as part of our teaching heritage.

My aunt and uncle, (Mr. and Mrs. Frank Savage) charter members of the Congregational Church, were delighted to see us children attending church. We always got there early, partly, I confess, for the exciting and winsome sight of "Prof." leading in his family, filling the whole front pew.

Summer Camping

Each summer, as soon as school was out, and before the rush of apricots, "Prof" would take a two-horse team and wagon full of high school boys and camping equipment over the mountain to Scott's Creek for two weeks of life in the open. In 1903, my brother (the late Thaddeus Joy, Architect, San Francisco) was fortunate to be one of the group. He was 18. When he returned he had a new dignity of consecrated manhood which never left him. (Judge Johnny Blain will note this)

Dies at Camp

On one such camping trip, in 1912, Professor Smith died. The blow to his former pupils was as if we had lost each his own father, or more than a father.

The Alumni, called together by grief, set up a committee to arrange a fitting memorial. A tree was chosen. At first we favored a Redwood, for its near immortality. But it was objected that this would always be a second-edition Roosevelt; so we chose, instead, a Monterey Pine. These pines grew near "Prof's" camp and were loved by him for their uplifted candles, bright in the sunrise.

Mills Waterhouse, who was studying forestry, and Stuart Smith, "Prof's" 2nd son, were assigned to get a group of boys, a team and a wagon and drive to the camp and bring back a healthy seedling.

My brother was to arrange a simple pageant. With his artist's eye he chose Mildred Duncan (Mrs. Easton Carter) as the most statuesque and intellectually beautiful woman of the Alumni to represent the Spirit of Poetry who should touch and dedicate the tree. He modeled in wax and had cast in bronze a suitable plaque:

"To the memory of James Frederick Smith this Pine is dedicated by the Alumni of Campbell Union High School........"

Mills and his companions brought the tree over several days early. They had chosen a noble specimen. They had balled its roots in damp, red clay and wrapped them in wet gunnysacking.

The Day was almost upon us and no dedicatory poem in sight. In desperation my brother and I locked ourselves each in his own room pledged not to come out without a finished poem. Late that night we compared, criticized, pieced them together,— the opening, mine; the rest, his.

Mrs. Smith agreed to come to the dedication, although at first, she asked to be excused. The many in Campbell who remember Ellen R. Smith, whose long, creative widowhood blessed Campbell in so many ways, will remember her graciousness. She let the boys drive her down to the schoolgrounds in the old surrey with the storm curtain up, where she sat apart from the crowd, her grief and privacy respected by all.

Pageant Presented

The young woodsmen, costumed in burlap aprons, planted the tree. Not so skillfully as Theodore Roosevelt did his,—they were more conscious of themselves as playing a part.

This is the poem that Mildred recited that day:

"Spirit of Poetry am I,
Child of Memory and Life's Mystery,
Born of Man's longing to express his soul,
(To catch in th' five-fold net of sense the things
That are beyond the senses, and shall be.)

(Thad cut out those two bracketed lines as being a little beyond our depth, but I slip them in here because after all the years, I like them) From here on the words are his:

"You call me now, and at your call I come
To touch this living monument and bid it doubly live and bear a language that shall always speak of those who wish to hear.
O, noble scion of a noble race,
Grow strong and mighty and keep green within thy branches the memory of the great soul who loved and labored here.
He has stood under the stars upon the spot where thou first hadst thy being, and praised the God who made you both.
Guard well thy trust.
I dedicate thee to the everlasting memory of James Frederick Smith."

But the Pine Dies

The pine lived, drooping, for a season, then slowly died. Mr. Fablinger watered it faithfully, as he did its thriving neighbor redwood. At Christmas-time I was tempted to dig it up and see if replanting would help. Would that I had!

Next spring the Pine was only a needleless stalk.

Mrs. Smith spoke to my mother of how it griever her. "Are the Alumni going to do anything about it?"

Mother (Amelia Hutchins Joy) with Mrs. Simon Newcomb (Gilbert's mother) was running the W. C. T. U. Coffee Club for migrant fruit workers then, as for the ten years from '05 to '15. As soon as the meal was over, her pies finished and roasts cooking she would somtimes walk home the mile to the Tank House, tend her garden, rest awhile, and walk back to serve the evening meal. One day, as she passed the little dead Pine, she heard young children who had never known "Prof." reading the plaque beside the tree and shouting:

"To the memory of James Frederick Smith this Pine is dead!!" That cut my mother to the heart. She sat down and wrote me a letter. The letter just stated facts. But a mother's letter says much between the lines.

Works in S. F.

Our week-enrs were briefer, then. Thad and I were draftsmen for Julia Morgan, Architect, in the Merchants' Exchange Building at California and Montgomery. We worked Saturday till 1 o'clock. To go home meant a 20 minute walk to 3rd and Townsend (we could do it faster than the streetcar), a long wait for the infrequent San Jose train, then the Interurban trolley to just over the bridge beyond the railroad tracks on Campbell Ave. From there is was "shank's mares" unless someone, knowing of our coming, had been thoughtful enough to trundle our bicycles down.

Another Tree

Well, I made some arrangements with Navelet's in San Jose, by mail, I guess, and late Saturday afternoon picked up there a sturdy potted Monterey Pine. The nursery had wrapped and roped it well so I could carry it upright like a sack of luggage. The Interurban carried it with me to the bridge across Campbell Creek. From there I toted it through Campbell (I always carried funny looking loads in those days, do still,—it caused no comment) out to the High School grounds and hid it among the shrubbery. I walked on home to the Tank House.

Late that night, long after dark, when the corner of Campbell and Winchester was entirely deserted, I walked down with pick and shovel. I believe, on some pretext, I had got Mr. Fablinger to leave a hose out.

I dug up the little dead Pine. The ball or hard, red clay still imprisoned the little roots. I broke it apart and wept over them,—dry, hollow tubes .Then I enlarged the hole, remembering how Theodore Roosevelt had done with his Redwood. I brought top-soil and water, set in the Navelet sapling,—its roots free in moss and humus. I shoveled round and round the tree as, ten years before, I had seen Teddy plant his Redwood. I pressed the soil down with my foot.

As I turned homeward in the dark, (light now to accustomed eyes), I went over and stood by the little Redwood, almost envious of its sturdy health.

That the night's work was well done, I call upon the magnificent Pine in the What-Not's patio to testify.

Sunday morning as she drove to church, Mrs. Smith saw the tree with gladness. Monday morning the little children going to grammar school looked incredulous as they saw that the little dead Pine had come to life.

I swore my mother to secrecy. She said: "I'll have to tell Mrs. Smith." But when she told her, Ellen R. Smith said something I shall treasure always,—something that nerves me often to plunge into a "lost cause". She said: "You needn't have told me, Mrs. Joy; I knew it would be Alice."

Alas! !Little did I dream that my well-meant secrecy would lend itself, forty years later, to a rumor belittling Roosevelt's beloved Redwood. Here let that rumor cease!!

JOB'S DAUGHTERS MEET

Barbara Lorenz, newly installed honored queen of Bethel No. 174, International Order of Job's Daughters of Campbell, held her first regular business meeting last Saturday afternoon in the I. O. O. F. Hall.

A barbecue at Barbara's home followed the meeting, which was the last meeting for the Bethel until next September.

Phone Company Plans Addition To New Building

Pacific Telephone this week announced plans to build an addition to a new building that isn't even open yet.

"That's how fast the San Jose area is growing," said the company's district manager, K. K. Kenchelian.

The building is the new ANdrews-ESsex telephone building on Foxworthy near Kirk Road. It's due to start operations July 8. And when it does, persons with Andrews or ESsex phone numbers will be able to dial their own calls to many parts of the country.

But Kenchelian explained that the area is growing so rapidly, that more equipment must be added to the building to handle the demand for phone service.

The building addition will provide equipment to take care of about 3,600 more telephones. The main building itself is equipped for about 13,500 phones.

The reinforced concrete addition will be built to the rear of the main building and will measure 114 by 60 feet.

A fair sponsored by the Mechanics Institute at San Francisco in 1874 attracted 600,000 visitors.

California's wine production in 1870 totaled two million gallons; it was 147,258,000 gallons in 1955.

Cub Pack 39 reports a successful bicycle rodeo which replenished their treasury. Den mothers Helen Cole, Boris Cade, Norma Taylor, Maxine Patrick, Kit Brown, Barbara Patershall, and Lou Pearce sold hamburgers and cracker-jacks to the contestants and cakes to their parents.

Prizes were awarded for the best decorated bike, the fastest bike rider and for the slowest. Foot races and other games were also held.

Kenneth Carpenter is leaving today for the YMCA camp at Boulder Creek, Camp Campbell.

New members recently received into the Westhope Presbyterian Church include Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Langen, together with Marlene and Judy; Mr. and Mrs. Le Ray Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. David Pitman; Mr. and Mrs. Rod Clendenen; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cunningham; Mrs. Howard Lambron; Mrs. Robert Smith.

Mrs. R. S. Coe entertained her sister, Mrs. Wm. Satterfield, her nephew Dick, and her niece Randy last Friday. The Satterfields drove over from Lodi with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Herndon and son Bill who are visiting them from Atlanta, Georgia.

Ten-year-old Jan Mortara would like a pen pal. Her address is 12 481 Lolly Court, Saratoga. Jan is in Los Angeles now, visiting her grandparents, the Louis Mortaras. The doctor has put her to bed for an indefinite stay, so it has been a welcome change—a bed in the back of the car for the trip, her grandparent's bedroom for two weeks, then home this Sunday.

Time hangs heavy on her hands. Perhaps there is some other child who would like to exchange letters with her.

The Luther League is spending the day at Big Basin. They left here about 11:30. They will have lunch there, and spend the afternoon. They have planned a number of other excursions for the summer. They hope to visit the Lutheran Seminary in Berkeley in August.

The Saratoga Lutheran Church is buying a parsonage at 1840 Vanderbilt Drive. The Rev. Werner Welchert and his family have been living there since early this month.

The Church is still looking for suitable property on which to build.

The No-Name Club had a potluck barbecue at the home of Elaine Yesney last week. It was the regular meeting of the club, and also a baby shower for Ann Younis.

An old fashioned baby buggy, beautifully decorated with flowers, met the guests eyes as they entered the door. It was filled with shower gifts.

Ann Block, Tody Burke, Goldie Darland, Evelyn Dulas, Eslie Major, Laura Neale, Lillian Oliver, Ethelmae Smith, Mary Spiker, and Audrey Wheeler, as well as the hostess and the guest of honor, were among those who attended.

Louise and Joe Blake have a brand-new baby daughter, Patricia Louise.

The Sew-and So Club will not meet again until fall. Their last meeting was a dinner at Adobe Creek Lodge, in honor of Kathie Steele's husband, Jim. A warrant officer in the Navy, Jim was transferred to the East Coast shortly after the family bought their home in Quito, so he has never met most of the husbands of his wife's friends. For the time being, he is stationed in San Francisco, so they took this opportunity of getting acquainted.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clawsons, Tom Stevenson, Vince Crisafi, Jim Grutt, Walt Primmer, Ray Spiker, Max Smith, James Steele and Leo McManus made up the party.

The Saratoga Junior Chamber of Commerce received its charter in an impressive ceremony at Los Gatos this week.

Bill Cole is president, Vincent Paratore, vice-president; Bob Le Doux, secretary; Ray Spiker, treasurer; Bob Moncrief, State Director; Lloyd Clawson and Wynn Shriver, directors.

Deborah Anne Crisafi celebrated her fourth birthday with a circus party. Invitations had been sent to all the children in the block, asking them to join a circus parade when the clowns called their names.

Promptly at two, to the tune of "Strike up the Band", the clowns appeared and went down the block, collecting Sheree Le Doux, Stewart Spiker, Judy Clawson, Lindy Clawson, Sharon Grutt, Tommy Stevenson, Kandy Scott, Mancy Hamilton, Leslie Wheeler, Ronnie Wheeler, Betty Jones, Billy Jones, Gail Anne Wright, Patsy Smith, and, back home, little brother Stevie Crisafi.

The back yard was decorated like a circus tent with a juice bar and a pop-corn bar. The two clowns outdid themselves in stunts to amuse the children, then there were games for everybody.

The afternoon closed with a ballerina angelfood birthday cake and icecream cones. The birthday cake was a standard anglefood cake with a porcelain doll standing in the center, and the cake frosted to simulate her skirt.

As the guests went home there was a grab bag where each boy got a bag of marbles, and each girl a jump-rope. Thus each child entered the house with a gift, and left with one.

Eleven-year-old Ronnie LeDoux left for Little Falls, Minnesota, to visit his grandparents, the Edward Le Doux, last week. He will travel alone by Greyhound bus, and stay all summer.

The Robert Martindales had dinner in the Fairmont's Tonga Room Saturday with the J. R. Jones who flew up from Los Angeles for the evening. Mr. Jones and Mr. Martindale were deep-sea divers together in the Navy during World War II.

SAN TOMAS SUMMARY

Isabell Pechin
FR 8-8040

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Gordon returned last week from a trip to Southern California. Kathie and Pat were enthusiastic about Disney land. The family went across the border to Tia Juana, and spent a little time in lower California also.

Richard and Tommie Walker, the sons of the Dallas Walkers, are in Petaluma, visiting their aunt and uncle, the Donald Burns. They will be back in a week to greet their grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Allen, who will spend a week with her daughter's family.

From San Tomas, Mrs. Allen will travel to Chico, where she will spend a week with her sister, Mrs. Dick Serrano. Then she will visit friends in Oakland, returning to Los Angeles the end of July.

4H members Jim Payne, Sue Tomisaka, Kay Groshans and Louise Pechin spent 4 days at Camp Loma last week. There were over 200 boys and girls from the various 4H clubs in Santa Clara county who enjoyed the swimming, hikes and crafts that the camp provided.

The Robert Janes entertained last week with pictures that Mr. Jane's sister and her husband had taken in Jamaica and England.

The H. G. Blohms, the C. L. Lisenbys, the Lloyd Hobbs, the Larry Phillips were among those who gathered to enjoy them.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones from Jamaica, who took the pictures, together with Jerry and Judy, are visiting their daughter and son-in-law, the Mark Douglases of Cambrian.

Before traveling to California, they had made a trip to England, so they had many interesting pictures of London — Buckingham Palace, the changing of the Palace Guard, little Judy flirting with a guardsman, among others. Their pictures of the tropical life of Jamaica were also something outside the usual run.

JUDGE EMERY WINS POULTRY TROPHIES

Judge Emery came home with a trophy for the best Bantam male bird in the poultry show at Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton last week, besides many ribbons for other entries.

Among his blue ribbon entries were for the best cockerel and best White Rock Bantam cockerel.

Judge Emery, who resides on the San Jose-Los Gatos Road in Campbell, has long been a champion poultry raiser, and has been winning prizes and trophies for his entries since 1896.

A retentive memory is a good thing, but the ability to forget is the true token of greatness.

LAW IN ACTION

CONTEMPT OF COURT

Because the stakes are high—a person's life, his good name, his liberty, or his property—courtrooms sometimes become supercharged with drama and anger.

Despite the excitement, the judge has to be impartial and open-minded as to issues, evidence, parties, witnesses and lawyers. To fail in this may cause a case to be tried again or reversed on appeal.

This makes a judge's job a hard one. For he must first keep order so that the facts go to the jury in a way to lead to sound, unprejudiced verdicts. The judge must also instruct the jury on the law, and decide what testimony goes into evidence.

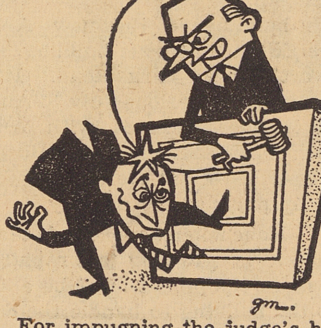
Meantime lawyers on both sides are duty bound to work with skill and vigor to protect their clients and to advance their cause.

In this tense atmosphere some people break over the line and do things to upset the conditions of a fair trial.

When this happens, the judge has "inherent" power—power that grows out of his hard job—to crack down and punish violators for "contempt of court." Within wide limits he can levy fines and give jail sentences on the spot—when the offense takes place before him. He can sometimes do the same for things that take place outside the court—like the disobedience of a court order. But such indirect contempt of court calls for hearings to prove that an offense has been committed.

In California judges have fined or given jail sentences to protect the due administration of justice:

For a juror or a lawyer for being tardy, (one judge even fined himself for this).



For impugning the judge's honesty, for a witness refusing to testify, for improper attempts to influence the jury or the court, for deceiving or taking advantage of the court, making personal attacks on the character and motives of the other side or its lawyer, for appealing to prejudices, and for referring to facts in court not admissable in evidence.

For all of these things judges have punished people for contempt of court.

Note: California lawyers offer this column for you to know about our laws.
